The New Dog Law.

The recent session of the Kentucky Legislature enacted into law an act relating to dogs, requiring them to be listed with the Assessor at the time of assessing property as required by law, providing for license and tags for each and every dog to be issued by the Councy Clerks of the various counties in Kentucky, and for failure to list each dog, as well as for any other violation of the act, a penalty of not exceeding $100 or imprisonment of not exceeding three months,, or both, at the discretion of the court is

"The word, 'owner,' when applied to the proprietorship of a dog, shall include every person having a right of property in such dog, and every person having who keeps or harbors every person who permits such dog to remain on or about any premises occupied by him "

GROVER GRISSOM.

Wednesday Morning of Last Week.

Last Wednesday forenoon, after a protracted illness, the subject of this notice crossed to the other side. The end came at his residence which is located near the Fair Grounds. The deceased was about thirty-four years old, a son of Dr. W. R. Grissom, who died several years ago. His mother, Mrs. Rachel Grissom, his devoted wife and two children and one brother survive him.

Grover Grissom was born near Breeding and when a small boy his parents removed to this place where he resided about twenty-seven years. Some years ago he united with the intellectual life and progress of this Christian Church, this place, living consistently until the end.

He was a kind-hearted man. It is said of him that he never refused to ble for him to so do. Every body likhe was dead.

The July Woman's Home Companion is an extremely interesting number containing splendid stories, several unusual articles, and many helpful suggestions. Kathleen Norris, the weil-known writer, has written a story of France after the war entitled "Nineteen-Thirty." There is also Margaret Deland's third article from France "Nopoleon and Others," and delightful short stories by Sophie Kerr and Sylvia Chatfield Bates. The amusing novelette, "Oh, Annice," by Alexine Heyland, is concluded in this number, and there is another Jimmie Preston story by Mary Heaton Vorse, which will appeal strongly to everyone who has ever helped with a patriotic bazar. #### Looking Over Oil Fields.

Among the many visitors interested such dog or has it in his care, and in the oil development going on in Adair county, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Honold, and Mr. W. M. Dunham and Son, Louisville, representing the Kentucky-Wyoming Petroleum Company were here this week looking over their holdings in the county. They were especially interested in examining the Moss well, near Gradyville.

to Be the General Opinion of Investigators.

TO FIND IT, SINK DEEP WELLS.

Francis S. Peabody, Chairman of the Coal Committee of the Council of National Defense, told the Senate Public Lands Committee today, that this country was not producing enough oil to win this war. He said that if nothing were done to develop new wells the reserve supply of crude oil would be exhausted in twelve months and the production would be 50,000,000 barrels less than requirements.

Now the situation outlined above, leads me to suggest this, the earlier we assist and encourage this industry in our county, the quicker the returns will be for all concerned in Adair county.

So many people that I come in contact with, when speaking of the oil industry, will say, the very first thing, oh, the oil business is crooked, you can county. never win in this industry. Well, I wish to say this: I know people chat have made a fortune on a very small investment They did not give up hope at the first sign of failure. They stuck and came out on the top shelf, and I know this, that if we will all stick together and have faith with each other in this industry in Adair county, I am sure that it will mean a great boom to this community and to the business of Columbia. But we in a month, but a year from now will towns, that have faith in their fields, thirty counties. especially oil.

The Plain Truth.

Lord Dunmore has told the people of Louisville that the bureau of the war now rests upon the American people. It is well that the voice of this high authority has been heard in our city. With the best intentions possible, many Americans still are so obtuse or so optimistic as to fail in a great measure to grasp the meaning of the tremendous responsibility that rests upon us. They still look upon American participation in the war as a sort of game to be played by whoever chooses to take part, leaving everyone else upon the side lines.

The Times has been consistently optomistic about the outcome of the war, but its optimism was and is based upon the tremendous warlike potentalities of the American people; and not upon any supposed case with which we can defeat the germans. The Times is very confident of the great superiority of the Americans to the Germans, but without the most intensive co-ordination and development of the Nation's latent forces, our optimism would prove merely futile.

Our noble guest expresses all confidence in Allied ability to win the war, albeit he very frankly states his opinion that France and Britain have raised all the men and all the money they can raise. So be it, the United States has plenty of men and plenty of money. Besides this, there is plenty of spirit; and plenty of courage. In fact, there are all the factors necessary to victory to be found in this country. But to obtain victory the peo;le must forget all private concerns, devoting themselves with complete absorption to the work of war.-Louisville Times.

County Road Engineers.

Frankfort, Ky., June 10, 1918. It is believed that one of the most important positions in any county is that of the office of County Road Engineer. In the first place practically fifty per cent., and some times more, of all the taxes collected for county purposes is expended on the roads, and the people should be interested in the men selected for the position of County Road Engineer,

A great many men think that anyone can build roads, but the concensus of opinion among men informed concerning roads, is that it requires training and years of epxerience for any man to know how to build and maintain roads economically.

The less money a county may have to expend on the roads the greater the need for a competent man so that every dollar is expended in a way that will do the most good, and at this time particularly we need the most efficient men so that the road system of the various counties can be maintained in the highest degree at the minimum of expense and it certainly re-

The law says that every man to be a county road engineer "shall be either a reputable Civil Engineer or a man who has had practical experience as a Supervisor or builder for two years and who shall have passed a creditable examination by the State Commissioner of Public Roads or one of his representatives."

Any court that appoints a man that does not possess the above qualifications does so contrary to law and such action should receive the proper notice by the people.

Stayed at Home Invest for those Who Went

June 28th is Patriots' Pledge Day---the day the government calls upon you to give a new pledge of loyalty; new proof of your will to win; new evidence that your dollars as well as your hearts are behind the men facing the Hun on the martyred fields of fair France.

National War Savings Day Friday, June 28th

On that day you will be asked to sign a personal pledge to buy War Savings Stamps.

War Savings Stamps pay you well, though that isn't half so important as what your money does for that boy---maybe your own---"over there." Back him up. Keep food going to him. Keep his clips full of cartridges. And shoes on his feet.

Let's send our boys over the top with the go-get-'m feeling that comes from knowing we are pledged to see that they get what is coming to them.

Sign your Pledge of Patriotism by agreeing to buy W. S. S. on National War Savings Day.

Diving Bell to Raise Treasures of the Deep

Wonderful Submarine Is the Invention of W. D. Sisson, an American Engineer

Millions and possibly billions of dollars worth of treasures now lying on the ocean floor in sunken ships may be regained to the world by the "cannon ball." The great diving bell has just been completed and is now being tested. It resembles a cannon ball, a giant sphere, eight feet in diameter. The shell is made of tough vanadium steel, one and one-fourth inches in thickness and weighs, with the machinery inside, six tons. The submarine works by maneuvering huge steel pontoons alongside a sunken ship, bolting the pontoons to the vessel and thus releasing the mechanism which pumps the pontoons free of water and raises the sunken ship. The largest pontoons are 40 feet long and 15 feet in diameter, and have a lifting power of 300 tons each.

Two operators form the crew of the diving bell and they work in normal atmospheric conditions because of an oxygen tank on top of the sphere. The air supply will last for 72 hours without being replenished. The supporting cable and all electrical and telephone wires are carried in an insulated cable, which is strong enough to support 56 tons.

Two propellers and a rudder give the ball lateral movement and two propellers send it up and down. These propellers push the ball through the water at two miles per hour.

In front of the ball are four 3,000 candle power nitrogen lamps, covered with a steel net, and a two-inch glass, to light up the hulls of the sunken ships. Near each light is a lookout lens four inches in thickness. On the front are huge magnets, which draw the ball to the hull of the sunken vessel.

KEEP POULTRY IN BACK YARD

The department of agriculture has a campaign in full swing for the establishment of small flocks of poultry in back yards of city or suburban dwellings. In every household, no matter how economical the housewife, there is a certain amount of table scraps and kitchen waste which has feeding value, but which, if not fed, finds its way find the following advice useful: into the garbage pail. Poultry is the only class of domestic animals which is suitable for converting this waste material, right where it is produced in the city, into wholesome and nutritious food in the form of eggs and poultry

Though the value of the product from each city flock is small of itself the aggregate is large. A small flock of hens, even as few as six or eight, should produce eggs enough, where used economically, for a family of four or five persons throughout the entire year, except during the molting period of the fall and early winter. By the preservation of surplus eggs produced during the spring and early summer this period of scarcity can be provided for. The keeping of pullets instead of hens also will insure the production of eggs. Not only will the eggs from the home flock materially reduce the cost of living, but the superior freshness and quality of the eggs are in themselves well worth the effort expended. Eggs are a highly nutritious food and are so widely used as to be almost indispensable, and an occasional chicken dinner is relished by every-

Where conditions render it feasible and cheap small flocks of poultry should be kept to a greater extent than at present by families in villages and towns and especially in the suburbs of large cities. The need for this extension of poultry raising is particularly great in those sections where the consumption of poultry products exceeds the production, with the result that prices are high.

Home-Grown Sweet Corn Is Best—Good Advice on How To Grow Your Roasting Ears

To have sweet corn at its best, says the U.S. department of agriculture, it should be on the fire within 15 minutes after being pulled from the stalk. It loses quality very rapidly after being picked because its sugar changes into starch. This is a fine argument for having this crop in the home garden, if space will allow. Those who wish to grow their own roasting ears will

Corn does best in a fertile soil, but is able to adapt itself to all textures from sand to clay. To grow it in sufficient quantities for the average family requires more space, however, than ed. for most garden vegetables. It should not be planted until after danger of frost is past.

The rows should be spaced not closer than three feet apart, and for the arger-growing late varieties the distance had best be three and one-half Stalks should be thinned to stand from 15 to 18 inches in the row. In planting, the seed is covered with one or two inches of soil. Cultivation must be thorough, frequent, and shall at 6:30.

It is possible to use the ground occupied by early corn for a fall planting of such crops as spinach, turnips, and kale. Large, late varieties of corn, however, will occupy the ground for practically the whole season.

and larger growth. But it is a source of sadness and rebuke to be so often reminded by both people at home and abroad that "we" and our merchants are "alseep at the switch." When reminded that our merchants and capitalists are inoportunely pursuing a "laisez faire" policy in the matter holding and building up a great trade here, at a time when the harvest is ripe, and the prices and profits golden, it is complained that commodities are too hard to get with which to supply the demand. There must be something radically wrong about this, as we cannot find it so elsewhere and in those neighboring towns and villages to which the cream of a splendid trade that rightfully belongs to Columbia is now going. The casual observer has only to note the enormous amount of matter comprising every kind of article of household use coming from distant mail order houses to all parts of Adair county and to many people right here in Columbia, and wondering why this should be when we and our merchants could easily and more cheaply supply every demand at profits that are remunerative.

It is our impression and belief that we need a genuine commercial revival, and that such a commercial revival can be brought about by such an organization and getting together of the business men of Columbia. In addition to needed improvements in our trade conditions, there are industries and institutions that could be established in a little town with new hustle and a They read: commercial life.

IT'S TAPS FOR OLD JOHN.

"In a year and a half, at the very outside, the whisky business will be a thing of the past in the United States." In an article in the July American Magazine, this prophecy is supported by facts and figures. It is estimated that there are 225, 000,000 gallons of whisky in existence. This means enough to supply 18,000,000,000 drinks of booze. 48,000,000 drinks are estimated to be consumed in a day in America. From these figures the supply will be consumed in a day in America. From these figures the supply will be consumed in three hundred and seventy-five days. The greatest good that will result in America both residents and non-residents from the present war will be the that the merchants and business divorce of the American governmen of Columbia should organ- ment from the liquor business, which for a hundred years has been conducted as a partnership

From Pellyton to Albany.

Monday morning, June 3, 1918, at 5:30 o'clock, your writer and Rev. I. T. Allen, left for Albany, Clinton county, to attend the District Conference, going by the way of Dunnville, Russell Springs and Rowena. Russell and Cumberland counties have have lots of wheat and it is looking fine, some almost ready to cut. Corn is looking very well. We crossed the river at Rowena. It looked a little scary, but we had to cross, when across we gave the ferry-man fifty cents gladly, and went on. We traveled through some of the worst desolate country I ever saw, mud-holes, hills and rocks. When getting near Albany, we saw the largest field of wheat we ever saw in Kentucky, being 100 acres in the field, and good besides. We arrived in Albany about sun-down, being directed wrong and going many miles out of the way. We went to Bro. Pillers, who directed us to Bro. Carr's who had a beautiful supper ready, which was served. After supper we went to church and heard Bro. J. W, Napier talk from Chron. 29-5, which was a wonderful sermon, and four were saved, and we had a grand meeting One of the old Deed Book 32, page 600. We were taken by a good brother in his car to the Wolf river bridge, in the hills of good old Tennessee. We made some pictures of the bridge and returned to our home to find supper waiting. Before we were through supper, the church bell began to ring and we had to hurry on. After hearing some good old hymns, our P. E. Bro. S. G. Shelly took up the mode of christian baptism in Bro. J. S. Chandler's place, on the account who is the surest to carry the of sickness it was impossible for Bro. Chandler to be present. A glorious sermon was delivered. Some very important points were made clear to everyone.

During the night a good rain fell. It was very much needed and the people were very glad for things were very dry. Thursday at 11 o'clock, Bro. J. R. Marrs, of Mannsville, took his text from the 47th chapter of Isaiah and 1st to 5th verses. This was the most touching sermon that has been preached. We heard the shouts of the good that made us rejoice in the name of our Savior, and we had a good old time hand shake. This closed the former service and we started for home. Our hearts were again made sad when we had to leave the good people of Albany, which we had learned to love. From these good hospitalities Albany has the biggest and heartiest people of any place I have ever been. May the richest of God's blessings be with them and on Bro. Piller, this pastor. God bless you all, is my prayer. Bro. I, T. Allen, Bro. J. R. Marrs, Bro. F. A. Land and wife, and myself left at 5 o'clock for home, coming out to Bro Ed Littrell and staying all night, starting early for home, going a new way from that we went down there and through a much better country, crossing Cumberland river at Creelsboro, seeing lots of fine wheat, some that was cut. Arrived at Russell Springs at one o'clock. After eating and feeding we started for home arriving at 6 o'clock.

War Savings Stamps are a direct loan to Uncle Sam. Nothing can lessen their value. They're always at par. They pay you well, though that isn't half so important to you as what money does for our soldiers "over there." Back them up. Keep food going to them. Keep their clips full of cartridges. THE INCONCEIVABLE SUM OF $33,000,000,000 LASTS ONLY TWO YEARS.

GUARANTEE WORLD FREEDOM

Third Liberty Loan, When Carried to Successful Issue, Will Do Much to Win War Quickly.

The war for world freedom is costing the United States one billion dol-lars a month, or more than $25,000,000 a day. Appropriations already made and bills now pending in Congress make it certain that the first two years of the war will cost America thirty-three billion dollars. These figthe expense will be many millions more daily.

Few persons have grasped the mean-ing of this stupendous sum. What does this huge sum mean to the people of the United States? Here are some of the things it means:

That an obligation of $330 has been piled up against every one of the 100,-000,000 men, women and children in the United States. If it were necessary to pay off the present war debt would have to pay $1,320, more avail-

The expenses of the government are 16 times as much under war conditions as in reach a billion dollars in a year. This only sure but quick. year, the first in the war, Congress appropriated $18,802,027,501. In 1898, the year of the Spanish-American war, the total appropriations were less than half a billion dollars-$485.002.044, or about one thirty-sixth of the cost of the first year in the present war.

In addition to voting more than $18, 000,000,000 cash for the first year of the war. Congress authorized the government to enter into additional contracts which aggregate $2,511,000,000. to be paid for at later dates as the work progresses.

Where millions of dollars formerly created interest in Congress, billions of dollars scarcely arouse a moment's attention, because everybody at Washington realizes that the best way to win the war in the shortest time is to throw the whole resources of the nation into the struggle and support the brave men who are "over there."

The war machinery for a year will cost in dollars and cents an amount that staggers the imagination. Here are some of the estimates submitted to Congress by the military branches. Army, $6,610,223,209; fortifications, $3,832,445,122; navy, $1,089,800,000; sundry civil, $1,160,242,998. The navy has just asked for an additional appropriation of $800,000,000 to speed up and increase the building of warships necessary to combat the submarine menace. The people should realize that the vast sums appropriated to conduct the war are absolutely necessary to win the battle against the ruthless Prus at once, the head of a family of four sian. Fireless Cooker and How to Get Best Results From Use of This Convenience (Prepared by the United States Depart ment of Agriculture.) The time which each kind of food should stay in the fireless cooker depends both on the nature of the food and on the temperature at which it remains inside the cooker, and before recipes for use with the fireless cooker can be prepared one must have some means of knowing how temperatures, are preserved in it. In experiments made in the office of Home Economics a 6-quart kettle was filled with boiling water and put into the cooker, the packing of which happened to be newspaper. The temperature of the water, which was 212 degrees F. when put into the cooker, was found to be 172 degrees F. after four hours had elapsed and 155 degrees F. after eight hours had elapsed. This shows the advisability of the common custom of allowing food to remain undisturbed in the cooker for at least six or eight hours, or in some cases overnight. If a soapstone, hot brick, or other extra source of heat is used, less time will be required. Materials which are denser than water (sugar sirup as used in cooking dried fruit), and therefore can be heated to a higher degree, will keep up the temperature longer when put into the cooker. Thus the density of the food material, as well as the amount and the length of time that the apparatus retains the heat, must be taken into consideration in determining how long different materials must be cooked in the cooker.

The recipes for dishes to be prepared in the fireless cooker differ somewhat from those for foods cooked in the ordinary way, chiefly in the amount of water or other liquids called for. Less liquid should be put into the food to be prepared in an ordinary fireless cooker, since there is no chance for water to evaporate. The cook must be guided largely by experience in deciding how long food should be heated before being put into the cooker and how long it should be allowed to remain there.

Statistics show that in the United States during the year 1916 there were approximately 50,000 fatal accidents and 600,000 serious injuries, says the Magazine of Safety. Onehalf of this enormous number have been classified as accidents occurring to employees of the manufacturing industries and public service companies throughout the country-50 per cent of which would have been avoided if workmen had not been careless, while another 25 per cent may safely be attributed to thoughtlessness. Needless accidents can only be eliminated by everyone practicing the rules of safety at all times and in all places.

SKETCHES OF ADAIR COUNTY.

BY: JUDGE! H. C. BAKER.

ADAIR COUNTY IN THE WAR 1812-1815.

"We have heretofore mention ed the fact that Adair county was well represented in the wa of 1812-15.

Judge Rollin Hurt has prepar ed an article on the service o soldiers from the county in that war, which he permits us to use Its perusal will prove of great interest to the readers of the News.

It is as follows:

The first soldiers, who appear to have been enlisted from Adair county in the second war with England were the members of Capt. John W. Shirley's company of Barbee's regiment. The officers were John W. Shirley, Captain; Thomas Turk, Lieutenant; Andrew Wagoner, ensign; bbert Young, Garland Gupton id Robert Morrison, sergeants; ad William Walker, John Sneed and William Young, corporals; Stephen Stone and Chas. Thomas did duty as fifers. The other members of the company were Job Atkinson, Samuel Allen Bowman, Randolph Robert Bryant, John Bryant, Nathan Barnett. Adam Beats, Larkin Brumley, David Breeding, Ambrose Brockman, John Barger, Thomas Carter, Ira Cravens, Conover, (whose real name was Dominicus Conover,) Jesse Clark, Henry Cook, Na-Coffey, David Conover, James Duncan, William Davenport, Joshua Duncan, Geo. Depree, William Diddle, John Davidson, Marshal Estes, Robert Fletcher, James Gilman, James Gilbraith, John Handy, Benjamin Hailey, Hyram Hancock, George Hughes, Samuel Isaacs, Thomas James, James Johnson, Walter James, George Knell, Thomas Luttrill, Burton Litton, Edward Lawless, William Lawson, Andrew Link, Chas. Moore, Joseph McMillan, James McKinley, Jesse Montgomery, George Morrison, Michael McKinley, John T. McElroy, John Patterson, Wm. Polly, Wm. R. Price, Robert Rose, Brice Richards, Green Selby, John Sheffield, Wm. Smith, Jonathan Salley, Joshua Sampson, James Vinzent, John White, William Wisdom, and Charles Wheeler.

This company was enlisted on the 23rd day of August, 1812, and for a period of six months, and contained seventy-four memofficers and men. Lieut. Col. Joseph Barbee, who then resided at Danville, Ky., was the Colonel of the regiment to which Capt. Shirley's company was assigned. The original purpose of the organization of the regiment was to do duty in the defense of the state of Indiana, which was then being threatened by the enemy. The different companies of the regiment rendezvoused at Danville, within a few days of the order for its formation. army and the city of Detroit, Mich., became known. The morning following the day of the rendezvous at Danville, Col. Barbee received orders to change the march of his regiment for the northwest, and to proceed with all dispatch. The regiment immediately commenced a march for Cincinnati, O., and in making the march passed through Nicholasville, Lexington and Georgetown, and encamped for three or four days upon the farm of one Kennedy, where the city of Covington is now situated. After crossing over the Ohio river, the regiment, including Capt. Shirley's company, proceeded to Piqua, on the Miami river. From this point the regiment marched to St Mary's, Ohio, which was then called "Girty's Town." On the way it passed through Lebanon and Dayton, Ohio, both of which places were then villages. At St. Mary's, the regiment was placed under the immediate command of General Winchester, by whose forders six companies of the regiment, including Capt. Shirley's, were stationed at St. Mary's, during the following winter. Col. Allen's and Col. Lewis' regiments of infantry were stationed during the winter at and in the neighborhood of Fort Wayne, Indiana, Col. Jennings' regiment was stationed during the winter at Fort Jennings, on the Au Glaize river, twenty-six miles to the north of St. Mary's. Col. Poague's regiment was stationed at a point further to the north than that of Jennings. Capt. Mc-Nair's company, of Col. Barbee's regiment, spent the winter at Waughpaugh Kanetta, then an Indian village twelve miles from St. Mary's. Capt. Peterson's company, of Barbee's regiment, was ordered to and spent the winter at Fort Wayne, which was sixty miles from St. Mary's. It devolved upon the six companies of Barbee's regiment, which were stationed at St. Mary's, and which included Capt. Shirley's company, to act as convoys for and to escort and protect the wagons and pack horses, which conveyed provisions from St. Mary's to the various posts named, and in this duty they were constantly engaged throughout the winter. The winter was excessively severe. The streams were frozen over, and the snow lay upon the ground to the depth of two feet during the entire winter. The men, when enlisted, did not expect that the campaign would last over three months, and this together with the haste of their mobilization and march to Ohio prevented them from making sufficient arrangements in the way of clothing for comfort, and until nearly Christmas they were very poorly clad. The greater number of them were clad in hunting shirts and trousers made of linen or cotton, and after two or three months the clothing became badly worn and afforded but scant protection to men who were obliged to travel in the open in the convoying of provisions and to spend the nights upon the ground, without the shelter of tents. Gov. Isaac Shelby made an appeal to the women of Kentucky for clothing for the naked soldiers. This appeal re-

Lieut. Edward Buford, Jr., of Nashwille, Lenn., was officially credited with shooting down a German airplane over St. Mihiel on May 22.

Buford while patrolling encountered two German pursuit planes. The fighting continued only a few minutes Buford attacking one of the Gerplanes, which tried to lead him into the fire from the other. Suddenly Lieutenant Buford looked overhead and saw two more Germans coming from out of the clouds for him. Be book a dive, all of the Germans div ing at the same time, and when he came up he had one of the enemy minnes in front of him. Buford began with his machine gun, causing this adversary to disappear in a nose dive. Although he was sure he had hit The German, it was not until later that the victory was confirmed.

A few minutes later Lieutenant Buford by maneuvering managed to get two of the remaining three maables and opened fire, but his machine gun jammed. As he was unable to use his weapon he started in a series of skilful dives and turns and was successful in shaking off the three ene. my planes.

and 100,000 Head Soon Will Be Grazing.

The policy of raising cattle for the use of the employees of the Panama canal and the military and naval forces there has transformed the appearance of the canal zone.

Large areas of forest and jungle along the railway and the canal have been cleared off and planted in guinea grass, and the big herds of cattle may be seen browsing in the valleys or on the slopes of the many hills. Many thousands of acres have been cleared already, and the work is still going on. A big dairy is also operated, and in time all the beef, milk and cheese needed on the isthmus may be produced there.

The guinea grass originally was an African plant, but has been established in the West Indies and parts of the continent for a long time. It is a heavy, rank grass, often reaching a height of ten feet, stooling freely and rooting deeply. It is particularly valvegetation, a quality of great utility in the tropics. It propagates both from seed and roots and spreads quite rap-

The para grass is grown in a limited extent also in low and wet soils. It is not as desirable as guinea grass, but is eaten by both cattle and horses. Para grass is the great prevailing plant of the lower Amazon valley, as it is not injured by the periodic inundations.

The cattle industry in the canal zone Gatun lake supplies plenty of water during the dry season, its branches ramifying through the many hills and mountains and making fresh water avilable in all the pastures. The zone may support a herd of 100,000 head of cattle without trenching upon the cultural purposes.

EXPLOITS OF FLEET OF BRITISH SUBMARINES IN THE BALTIC SEA

Little Squadron Long the Terror of German Warships and Transports-Sink Nine in One Day-Three British Craft, Since Self-Destroyed, Attack a Whole Hostile Armada—Entered and Charted Every Harbor on Baltic.

Describing the work of British submarines in the Baltic and their destruction to avoid capture by the Germans, the Petrograd correspondent of the London Morning Post says:

"Under all the circumstances it is perhaps rather a marvel that the Germans did not make a glorious capture of nearly every submarine we had in the Baltic. They captured none, and they destroyed none. There is not a German harbor in the Baltic that our submarines have not entered and charted for their own convenience, creeping under mine fields and through channels so shallow as hardly to admit of this hazardous maneuver. "We never had more than nine submarines in the Baltic, and we still had seven when the end came. One of our boats put down nine enemy transports in a single day. Russia knew and openly admitted last summer that it was the British submarines which held Petrograd intact.

"When Reval went it was obvious that the end was near. The British submarines, still seven in number and all in fighting trim, had by this time moved over to Finland, and ultimately concentrated, with their stores and workshops ashore, and a huge barge is especially favored by the fact that for floating mechanics in the harbor of Helsingfors.

Sunk to Check Foe.

"With three or four warring parties jealously eyeing the British ships and stores and the Toovaristchi (comrades) airing their new gospel to the British crews of the submaareas used for agricultural and horti- rines on every occasion, and with the absence of law and order in Helsingfors, opportunities for every kind of trouble were plentiful, and extreme tact and firmness were needed to bring things to a successful issue. As a result, not a single ounce of any kind of metal-British property, some of it priceless nowadays herewill ever fall into human hands, either those of the Huns or the White Guards or the Finnish Red Guards, or Russian Toovaristch. All seven submarines, the repair-shop barge, and every scrap of stores lies safely in minutely disintegrated form at the bottom of the Baltic.

"In charge at Helsingfors was Lieut. Commander Downie. The task of destroying some £3,000,000 worth of British Government property to save it from the Germans, who had already landed at Hango, was his last sad duty. Plans for the private sale of enormously valuable stores of all kinds-metals and composites, electric fittings, etc.-were canceled when it was discovered that arrangements existed whereby all such matters of priceless value to the enemy were to be handed over to the Germans wherever found. It was decided to put British property to the bottom.

"That fraction of the British navy which was under Russian orders in the Baltic consisted of submarines. which I will call (because these were neither their letters nor their numbers) Alpha 2, 10, 11, 20, and 21 and Beta 29, 30, 33, and 36. The Alpha class was fairly large, carrying thirty-odd men. The Beta was an older type, with about half that number.

Attacks German Armada.

"The biggest thing the Germans have done in a naval way in this war was the landing on the Islands of Messel and Dago. Certainly the only effective opposition they met at sea came from British vessels, three in number. Of the four Beta boats one was undergoing repairs at the time, leaving three available-29, 30, and 33. These three went into the thick of things and gave the Germans a very unwelcome surprise. Failing an adequate intelligence service, the British submarines took sight for themselves of the oncoming armada of dreadnoughts, cruisers, destroyers, and transports, and plunged into their midst. Everything was against our submarines, but they all came out of it alive, and the enemy did not.

"Captain Sealey, in Beta 30, was of the true British type, the finished article of the British navy. Beta 29 was commanded by Commander Downie, whose record proves him perfectly true to type; but it was his first command.

"The Germans, notwithstanding convenient arrangements made for the maximum of immunity, were mistrustful of the British boats, and the armada moved inside a ring of destroyers and other smaller craft. Sealey, taking a comprehensive glance at their dispositions, dived under five of the destroyers nearest to him, the same tactics being imitated by Commander Downie and by Beta 33. They came up inside the protective ring, to be immediately assailed from aircraft and ships with a rain of missiles-in particular with so-called deep-sea bombs. "Sealey conned his objective-one of the dreadnoughts-dived and fired two torpedoes at a range probably too short for the run of either torpedo, for the dreadnought escaped. But one of the torpedoes passed on and put down a destroyer on the other side of the encircling ring.

"Sealey, then passed practically under a dreadnought and came up on the other side, still within the encircling ring of destroyers. Turning, he rapidly selected another objective, and then dived to get it. This time he put down a transport carrying hydroplanes-a particularly useful shot, for these hornets, besides bombarding our craft, which were, of course, quite visible at fighting depths under water, also kept the ships informed where deep-sea bombs would best serve the Germans. Sealey damaged a cruiser so badly that he was able to chase her for many hours, but could not overtake her.

"All this time hydroaeroplanes were dropping deep-sea bombs upon all three boats, while every ship was pumping shell and deep-sea bombs in their direction, according to the signals of the hydroaeroplane spotters. Whether by good luck or more artful dodging Beta 30 got no more than a few tremendous jerks from these deep-sea bomb explosions. Beta 33, though never actually struck, suffered so terribly from these repeated shocks that she was left helpless, unable to tell anything about herself except that her skin was unpierced. Smashed gauge glasses left her ignorant of her depth, her margin of buoyancy, what power was still available to move or lift, sink or drive her, and she was absolutely blind besides. She simply carried on and finally beached herself and was blown up by her own crew after all her valuable fittings had been removed. Beta 29 had the extremely bad luck to get aground in a tight place and suffered injuries which would be summarized in the case of an ordinary ship as 'in a sinking condition.' Commander Downie, however, stuck to it and got off."
